Forsyth Money From Diamonds

SEATTLE (AP)-Fearing reprisals by "a secret society" against George H. Partridge, 22, Vancouver, B.C., carpenter's apprentice and confessed participant in an anti-Japanese bomb plot, authorities today dropped a veil of secrecy around his whereabouts and elaborations of his statements.

One of the investigators said if n organization is involved-and Detective-Capt. Marshall C. Scraf ford said frankly "higher-ups" were being sought here and in British Columbia—it might have two reasons for reprisals against the youth.

1. Partridge has stated he delib erately attempted to sabotage the plot in Tacoma.

2. He, apparently, is making every effort to assist federal, county and state authorities in unraveling the plot.

Detective-Lieuts. F. A. Himes and Walter J. O'Brien were reported in Vancouver today inves-tigating the backgrounds of Partridge and Rolph M. Forsyth, 28, former school teacher, drowned while pushing a dynamite bomb toward the Japanese motorship Hiye Maru here last Thursday.

Immigration officials elicited information Monday from Partridge that three white men, on of them with a revolver, had warned him to return to Rolph Forsyth when Partridge at-tempted to sneak away in Vancouver, B.C., recently.

Forsyth, 28, unemployed former school teacher, drowned in Elliott Bay after attempting to push a suitcase loaded with dyna mite toward the Japanese liner Hiye Maru last week, Partridge said Forysth had offered him $1,000 to aid in the plot.

DID NOT "PULL OUT"

Immigration Solicitor J. P Boyd quoted Partridge as saying: "When I left my room in Van-couver and started to sneak out the alley to avoid meeting Forsyth at the dock, three men approached me. One of them said me, 'You're going with syth. Go up and get your suitcase or it will be too bad for

Boyd said Partridge had told Forsyth he "didn't want to get mixed up with the government," (Turn to Page 2, Col. 5)

Brief Attacks School Grants

The brief, cynically headed "A simple little problem in arithmetic for school trustees and others," was prepared by Trustee W. P. Marchant, chairman of the board's finance committee, and was referred by the trustees to their delegation which will confer with the provincial school survey board.

The paper starts out by listing in the form of an arithmetical problem the 13 steps taken to compute the provincial grant te the city for school purposes, then goes on to attack the basis on which it is computed.

"It is submitted that the as sessed value of property cannot be related to the municipal cost PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (CP) of education, and that the proother persons properly employed

The brief continues: "A further illustration of the peculiar-ities of the present system is that for the year 1938 we shall receive a smaller grant per teacher be-cause in the year 1937 we were able to economize in the number of teachers employed."

The brief concludes by remark ing that Victoria receives the owest or nearly the lowest grant per teacher in the province, and by saying that the total pro-vincial aid to city schools last year amounted to only 14.45 per cent of their total operating cost, and that for 1938 the percentage was likely to be considerably

Parliament Still Supreme

WHEN PRIME MINISTER MACKENZIE King refused to be stampeded by Pre-mier Hepburn to change the 30-year-old licy of control over power export he was adhering strictly to the attitude adopted by successive Dominion Parliaments and governments since 1907. "It is suggested that the considerations which entered into the initial decision may or may not still be valid; but we are reminded, too, that they have detercan hardly be dismissed by treating them as if they did not exist. As matters stand, there can be no additional increase in the export volume of electrical energy unless authorized by Parliament. This is what Mr. King told Mr. Hepburn when Mr. Hepburn sought to have Mr. King ignore precedent and virtually treat Parliament as if it were a nonentity. To the present government leader at Ottawa the Parliament of Canada is and must remain supreme.

It appears now that The Toronto Globe and Mail, having got over its little "tiff" he may occasionally have erred on the side the newspaper was accused—evidently without justification-of having published statements that were not in accordance with the facts, is of the opinion that Parliament that will be extended to the family of the Hydro-Electric Commission will have on its hands as the result of the consummation of new contracts with power companies in the placed those repudiated by Premier Hepburn coming session is very old. Meanwhile, however, Mr. King stands firmly on principle.

Nerves Getting Frayed

THERE SEEMS TO BE AN IDEA abroad that the attempt by a young man from Vancouver to dynamite a Japanese liner in dock in Seattle may have far-reach ing consequences. One suggestion is that the Hiye Maru "incident" was an inspiration of the Japanese, the argument being that distruction of one of their ships with loss of life-in American waters by a British'

True, a war fever, irritated by costly Japanese, and apologies made and accepted. held for the white race, There also is the danger that other similar incidents may cause uneasiness on this cor tinent in particular because the Canadian and American people are so much nearer to the scene of war than are the people of Europe

It should nevertheless be understood that Japan, perhaps better than any other country, realizes that little she does on the Pa cific coast or in any area adjacent to British and United States territory in the Pacific escapes the intelligence services whose headquarters are at Ottawa, London and Wash ington.

We are told that Japan has her eye on Hongkong. Japan knows, too, that Hongkong must be left severely alone if an open kong must be left severely alone if an open breach with Great Britain is to be avoided. Japan cannot afford an open breach with Britain. And about the last thing she wants.

On the bench Mr. McPhillips maintained a full measure of independence. It almost may be said that his opinions were more often in conflict than otherwise with those of his brother justices. This is by no means to say that his concept of the law or the manner of its administration ran on un orthodox lines. Approval of the figures was given after some debate had pre-ceded announcement of a tentative list of functions for the May 24 festivities. Those events would not be the major celebration of the year, the committee chair-man, Alderman Ed. Williams, reported. The group wished to con-centrate its main efforts on a celebration in August, close to the anniversary date of incorporation.

The committee asked the coun-cil to make provision in its 1938 budget for $1,500 for May 24, another $1,000 for July 1, and $1,000 for Navy Week.

Alderman John A Worthington moved the money sought be taken out of the 1937 surplus.

Under the chairmanship of George E. MacDonald, head of the retail merchants' section of the Chamber of Commerce, the meeting also dealt with the question of closing at 5.30.

An expression of opinion was taken and the majority voted against early closing.

Merchants in favor of early closing did not see what difference half an hour meant. Those opposed declared that most of their business was at that time.

A second resolution of May 24.

Mayor McGavin, in reply to a question by Alderman W. L. Morgan, stated the special 1938 grants requested 1 as t night, coupled with the $5,000 surplus, would be the final amount given for celebrations.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce, Alderman Williams said, had promised its co-operation for the August events, which, he said, might cost $3,000.

The snowdrops, top, were in full bloom in the garden of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Byram, 780 Newport Avenue. Mrs. Byram says they usually bloom about January 1 but this year they were in flower the earliest on record. On December 20 she wrote to her sister in Edmonton saying that instead of snowflakes they had snowdrops in the garden. The lower picture of the state of the ture shows a polyanthus plant in full bloom in the garden of Dr. between Broughton and Yates. A. C. Sinclair, 1152 Dallas Road. Beside polyanthus there were roses, wallflowers, and a jasmine in flower in this garden.

DR. JAMES A. NAISMITH, the father of basketball, never dreamed that the game he intro-duced while a Y.M.C.A. instructor in Springfield, Mass., back in 1891, would sweep to the heights of popularity it enjoys today. It was beyond his fondest hopes that politions would pop basket balls through the nets and that crowds of 18,000, such as drawn at Madison Square Garden, New York, would jam a half in a single night to see the game

But that is just what has happened. The game which started out as a "healthful exercise" and e m p l o y e d peach baskets for goals, now attracts more paid admissions through the turnstiles than any other indoor sport on the books. From the standpoint of participation, too, there are more people competing in basketball than any other a ctive sport. There are at least 20,000,000 people throughout the world who play the game, and at least 15,000 of this number do their dribbling and shooting on this continent.

This number does not seem so large when consideration is taken of the widespread scope of action. Still playing second fiddle to the group-leading Bruins, New York Rangers go into Boston tonight for a game that may decide whether they are to catch up before the National Hockey League schedule ends.

Pearl fishers of the Red Sea

Then how does it happen we call it the Red Sea? The tion has not been certainly answered, but several attempts have been made to explain it.

First, it is said, there are times when seaweed in some parts of the Red Sea takes on a reddish color. If people saw such sea-weed in early days, it may have led them to choose the name. There are also great coral reefs to the Red Sea, and their pink or reddish color is plain at low tide.
Second, there are cliffs of reddish rock along sections of the coast. The name may have grown

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX-I am 43 years old and divorced. Desperately in love with a married man. He is an insurance man and for more than three years I have been going with him on his calls, and he would pretend to his wife that he had to go to meetings at night and would take me out. Recently she found out about us, but she won't get a divorce and he won't leave her, although he tells me he loves me better. Why do wives seem to think it is a crime for their husbands to fall in love with another woman? Why doesn't a wife get out and make it easy for her husband? I can't understand why they are so selfish. What shall I do? Don't tell me what shall I do? Don't cell hick to give him up because I will hang on as long as there is breath in my body.

MISERABLE.

Answer: It is strange that a fine intelligent woman, who is married to a lying, sneaking, double-crossing man, doesn't chuck him out of the door and into the arms of any woman who will take him and say to herself: "Well, that's that, and a good riddance of bad rubbish!"

Personally, I have never been able to see how a wife could go on loving a husband who had betrayed and humiliated her with his affairs with other women; who had shown that he had no affection. for her and whom she knew she could not trust out of her sight, but that is the queer and incomprehensible way in which a lot of women are built. They are human porous plasters that stick, once they have set their hearts upon a man, and nothing he does seems to pry them loose.

A good many answers, however, can be made to your naive A good many answers, however, can be made to your naive question of why wives think it a crime for their husbands to fall in love with other women. One is that when a wife loves her husband it breaks, her heart to find out that he has ceased to care for her and set his affection on another woman. Also it tears her soul with jealousy and it humbles her into the dust to be discarded like an old garment whose looks and usefulness are ended.

Besides this, marriage is woman's vocation as well as her avoca-tion. Running her home is the trade by which she makes her living and, if this is broken up, it nearly always forces her to a lower scale of living, for there are comparatively few men who can pay enough alimony to support their ex-wives in comfort.

wise, women cling to the archaic view that when a mi marries a woman and takes the oath before the altar to love, honor and cherish her until death shall them part that it is a binding contract that he should keep.

There are also many answers to be made to your question as to why wives don't make it easy for their husbands to leave them for another woman. One is, as I have said, that the wife probably still loves the poor creature. The second is the children. She doesn't want her children half-orphaned and deprived of a father's care, for many poor husbands are good fathers, and robbed of the education and start in life he could give them. Nor does she desire to give up all that she has worked for in the years since she married a poor boy and toiled and scrimped and saved to help him make a fortuse and a sea water. They are tiny, but and toiled and scrimped and saved to help hill make a local part sea water. They are tiny, but place in the world. She feels she has a right to share in his prospers that their reddish color perity as she did in his hard times, and that it isn't fair that she be a numbers that their reddish color. turned out like a poor old work horse that has served its purpose.

So you see there are a good many reasons why this wife doesn't divorce her husband so you can have him. And there is still another reason that you do not seem to have guessed, and that is that the man doesn't want you and he is sheltering himself behind his wife's skirts. Most philanderers are like that. The last thing in the world that they want is for their wives to divorce them.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX-My brother has two children, one a boy of nine. Their mother deserted them about two years ago and they are being boarded out and not properly taken care of. I want as well.

How hot it is! The sun-baked deserts on either side send slow, hot winds over the Red Sea, and a difference in his feelings toward us. What do you think?

Answer: I think it would be an ideal arrangement and that you would all be very happy in it. Ties of blood mean little to children. They love those who are good to them. And in taking this child you would know its heredity, and that is an MRS. S. J. W. advantage that few foster-parents have.
